Coronado secures up to US$150M additional liquidity from Stanwell for additional coal supply

Coronado Global Resources Inc. ("Coronado", the "Company" ASX: CRN) today announces that the Company and Stanwell Corporation Ltd ("Stanwell") concluded an agreement whereby Stanwell will provide up to US$150 million of near-term liquidity to Coronado, in exchange for thermal coal supply of up to 800,000tpa over a five-year period commencing in 2027.

This transaction, in addition to the recently announced US$150 million ABL refinancing, provides up to US$300 million in additional liquidity to Coronado.

Highlights

- This transaction provides Stanwell with optionality over additional coal supply for its power generation needs, thereby supporting secure Queensland energy supply and jobs
- Up to US$150 million additional near-term liquidity comprising:
 - a US$75 million prepayment and
 - a rebate waiver and deferral from April to December 2025, which is expected to provide ~US$75 million at current prices¹.
 - the additional liquidity bears 13% p.a. interest and will be settled by physical coal delivery starting in 2027 over five years.
- Under the agreement, Coronado will supply Stanwell up to 800,000 tpa of thermal coal for five years starting in 2027:
 - 400,000 tpa will be fully exposed to the prevailing market price
 - 400,000 tpa will be priced at a fixed forward curve that is higher than the current spot price
- As a result, over the five-year supply period, 60% of the 1mtpa tonnes previously reported to become available for export, will be fully exposed to market prices.
- After 2032, all additional tonnes are expected to be available for export at market prices in line with what was previously reported.

Under the terms of the 2018 New Coal Supply Agreement ("NCSA") between Coronado and Stanwell, Stanwell's entitlement to thermal coal at deeply discounted, fixed prices will reduce from up to 3.5 mtpa to up to 2.2 mtpa in 2027. Accordingly, under the NCSA, approximately 1.3 mtpa of thermal coal becomes available in 2027 for export at market prices. In addition, the rebate payable by Coronado to Stanwell will also cease and the fixed price paid by Stanwell for the remaining 2.2 mtpa will increase.

Under the new arrangement with Stanwell announced today, up to 800,000 tpa of the 1.3 mtpa described above will be supplied to Stanwell for the 5-year period commencing in 2027. This is expected to result in significantly lower costs, improved margins and cash generation for Coronado. At current prices this is expected to amount to approximately US$150 million in incremental annual cash flow commencing in 2027.

The combination of this transaction, the recently announced ABL refinancing, our expansion projects at Mammoth and Buchanan that are ramping up in the second half of this year and US$100M in cost saving initiatives underway are expected to materially improve the company's liquidity position to withstand the current low metallurgical coal price environment.

Chief Executive Officer, Douglas Thompson, said:

"We expect that the additional liquidity, together with the confidence in production delivery and ongoing management actions to reduce cost and capital expenditure, puts Coronado in an improved position to weather the current, prolonged low-price environment and preserve the inherent value of our long-life, high quality metallurgical coal assets. We believe this arrangement strikes the right balance between funding the company's near-term requirements while protecting stakeholder interests at a time when our share price does not reflect the intrinsic value of the Company. Stanwell is a key business partner to Coronado, and we look forward to continuing our mutually beneficial long-term relationship."

We continue to proactively consider all available options to ensure our liquidity position is adequate for a prolonged market downturn and have the appropriate capital structure, including continuing with our disciplined approach to capital expenditure and ongoing cost management initiatives.
