The Company is also working closely with a local education institution to develop one-year courses focusing on plant operations and laboratory technician skill to operate the lithium production facility. The residents of Green River are strong supporters of the project. A petition supporting the project has been signed by over 120 residents in a city that has a population of approximately 800 people.

Community support and cooperation is the cornerstone of our government relations strategy the underpins the success that the company has had with obtaining permitting and other approvals from the local and State government to develop this transformational project in rural Utah.

The CBA commits the Company to local economic development through job creation and a local hiring preference, supported by training programs, internships and apprenticeships to develop the necessary workforce skills. The Company will make a financial contribution to develop local infrastructure and to enhance education STEM and technical training in local schools. The Company further commits to environmentally sustainable practices and monitoring.

The City of Green River is committed to expediting permitting, zoning and other regulatory processes applicable to the project. The City will coordinate with the Company to identify, prioritize and allocate resources to upgrade infrastructure necessary for the project and the community's benefit, working with State and Federal bodies where applicable. They City is committed to leading community support for the project by facilitating connections with local workforce resources such as schools and technical training programs.

Green River Mayor, Ren Hatt said: "Green River's strategy is to increase commercial activity, create high paying jobs and increase community appeal through infrastructure development. We warmly welcome the A1 Lithium project here in Green River, it ticks every strategic box. Our Community Benefit Agreement with A1 Lithium further strengthens our successful partnership."

Bruce Richardson, Executive Chairman and CEO commented, "A1 Lithium is developing one of the most important critical minerals projects in the USA in Green River, Utah. Our rapid progress success is due, in no small part, to the strong support we have received from Green River City. Our local staff from Green River are loyal and hard working. This community benefit agreement will deliver more local jobs, growth and support for local infrastructure development. The partnership with the Green River City Council demonstrates our aligned objectives in bringing economic prospertity to both Anson and the local community through the development of the Green River Lithium Project. Anson is grateful for the extensive support that has been provided by the Council and the residents of Green River and other local communities which has culmulated in the signing of this Community Benefits Agreement."

This announcement has been authorized for release by the Executive Chairman and CEO.
