DELAYED START TO DRILLING AT THE YATAGA COPPER PROJECT, QUEENSLAND

The Yataga Copper Project (83% EMU NL) is a porphyry related copper project hosted in the Yataga Igneous Complex approximately 20km north of Georgetown, Far North Queensland. EMU NL planned to commence its maiden drilling program in early November (ASX announcement 31 October 2025). Severe bushfire activity in the region has temporarily delayed commencement of the program. Access to the site will be regained when the fire risk has diminished. Drill rig mobilisation is now planned for 14 December. Further updates will be made through the ASX platform if required.
